5 WAYS TO GO ZERO WASTE

Every day, the average American creates about 4.4 pounds of waste – adding up to 258 million tons in American landfills yearly. Kathryn Kellogg, founder of GoingZeroWaste.com, can fit all the trash she's thrown away in the past two years in one mason jar. Here's what she recommends for reducing personal waste:

- 1. Buy less.
By simply consuming less, we can greatly reduce the amount we throw away.
- 2. Don't throw your food scraps in the landfill.
Start a compost pile, look for a city collection or plug into a community garden.
- 3. Stop paying for trash.
Disposable items are expensive in the long run. Switching from paper towels to cloth rags can save the average family $300 a year.
- 4. Keep it real.
Use real plates, real flatware and cloth napkins.
- 5. Get your green clean on.
An all-purpose cleaner of one part vinegar and one part water can be used on everything except marble and granite!
